West Andover Residents Want Tank Permit Reconsidered

By Susan K. O'Neill

At their Jan. 27 meeting, Andover selectmen granted WCCM, a Lawrence radio station, a license to store and keep 2,500 gallons of propane gas in above-ground tanks at its Chandler Road transmitter site. This week, a number of townspeople living in the area have signed a petition requesting that the selectmen reconsider their decision.

The 4-1 vote (selectman Donn Byrne in opposition) followed a heated discussion in which abutters, acting Fire Chief Harold Hayes, and representatives of the station and the Bay State Gas Company debated the wisdom of storing gas in a residential area where children sometimes set fires.

According to Raymond Mansour, the project's consulting engineer and contractor, the Chandler Road transmitter station now houses an above-ground, 500-gallon propane tank, which is used to heat a building on the site. Mansour explained that WCCM has been designated a Civil Defense station recently; as such, it is required by the state to store a supply of propane sufficient to run its emergency generators for 14 days.

Mansour placed the estimated necessary fuel supply at about 2,000 gallons. With the present 500-gallon tank, two additional 1,000 gallon tanks, which are only filled with approximately 800 gallons each to allow for expansion, would have to be installed at the Chandler Road site to fulfill the state's requirements, he said.

At the meeting, abutters on nearby Joseph Street objected to the proposed tank installation on the grounds that there are a large number of children living in the area, and that some of them have set fires in woods on and around the station property in the past. The presence of the tanks, they contended, would present a grave fire and explosion hazard.

A representative of the Bay State Gas Company, which will supply the fuel, answered that there had been no vandalism problems with the station's existing 500-gallon tank.

"What about building a bunker around them (the tanks)?" suggested selectman

Biting Protection

Dr. Bernard Daly, DMD, takes a toothprint from Timothy Sheehan, age 8, at the Children's Identification Clinic, held in the St. Augustine School cafeteria last Saturday as part of Catholic Schools Week. The toothprint, an impression made when a child bites down on a piece of material that fits inside the mouth, was a new component of an I.D. package that also contained information about the child's height and weight, a picture, and fingerprints. More than 300 children participated in the clinic, organized by Dr. Frank Odum of Andover to help parents prepare for the unthinkable: the chance that their child could be abducted. Saturday Movie Responds To Student Activity Need

Deana M. Bardetti

Named To Advisory Committee

Deana M. Bardetti, a senior at Andover High School, has been selected as the student representative of the 40-person Search Advisory Committee for the position of the Massachusetts Commissioner of Education. The group consists of educators from across the state appointed by the Board of Education to assist in choosing the new commissioner.

Bardetti will participate in the interviewing process of the final candidates at a two-day meeting at the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston on February 6 and 7. She plans to pursue a career in education and has been accepted in the Early Decision Program at Boston University's School of Education.

Bardetti is moderator of the State Student Advisory Council for the Board of Education and was chairperson of the Northeast Regional Student Advisory Council. She serves as the student member of the Board of Education's advisory council on education personnel and is vice president of the Andover High School Student Council. Bardetti is the daughter of Marilyn and Joseph Bardetti, 5 Marie Drive.

What's this you say? Nothing to do this Saturday night?

Well, here's news for you.

Any Andover High school student can go the Collins Center at 7:30 p.m. and see "The Karate Kid" and munch on pizza for only $1. Only $1 you say? Yes. It's all thanks to a group of Andover High school students and counselors Ruby Easton and Mike Marcoux. This group, that includes Chris Abel, Margaret Easton, Mina Moutzougeorgis, Lauren Petzold, Kelly Abercrombie, Jeanette Molina, Katey Regan, Laura Cerrone, Mike Dimeo, Larry Aiello, Brian Cronin, Mary Robb, Connie Graham and Pam Kostka, went to the Smith Purdon Fund at West Parishes Church with a proposal for funding a film series. The proposal was accepted and Smith Purdon generously donated money that will enable the school to provide alternative activities to weekend parties for the students.

Papa Ginos of Andover is donating the pizza, making the evening affordable for everyone.

The committee plans to show two more films at times that student advisory council president Chris Abel calls "down times of the year. When there are no holidays and the only activities for kids are parties."

The committee has been strongly supported by the administration and hopes for a good turnout. They would like to thank Smith Purdon and Pappa Gino's for their generosity and concern towards the students.

Parent-Teen Communication Meetings

The Greater Lawrence Psychological Center, under contract to the Andover schools to provide community support group work, will hold a series of group meetings at Andover High School. AHS's Parent Advisory Council is sponsoring these meeting for parents and their teens to address teen issues, values, attitudes and how parents and teens can better relate to each other.

The first discussion group will be held Wednesday, Feb. 12, in the Parents Center, school administration office. These support groups will be held every other Thursday for six weeks.

West Junior and Doherty Junior high school parents and their teens are also invited.

Town Glass Drive Set For February 15

The February glass drive, sponsored by Andover Recycling, Inc., will be held in the old town hall parking lot on Saturday, Feb. 15. Recycling volunteers will be available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The large roll-off container supplied by David B. White of North Atlantic Recycling Services is usually placed parallel to Barnard Street close to the Bartlet Street entrance to the parking lot. It is divided into sections to separate clear from green glass. Brown glass is not being collected.

Glass recyclers are asked to take containers home with them because there is not a trash receptacle available to take all the bags and boxes in which glass is brought to the drive. Bags and boxes should not be thrown into the bins along with the glass.

Recycling volunteers whose numbers are listed on the green recycling calendar will be happy to answer phone inquiries.

Deadline Set For Registration

The Andover senior center will hold another round of commodity foods distribution on Monday, March 24, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. All Andover residents age 60 and older who have pre-registered will receive five pounds of cheese, two pound of rice and one pound of butter. The last day of registration is March 3.

Personnel Actions Approved

Brenda Kincaide elected not to accept her appointment as West Elementary noon-hour supervisor, which was to begin Jan. 21, the school committee was informed at its Tuesday night meeting.

Other personnel actions taken by the committee were: Glen Norton, South/Sanborn Junior Custodian. Norton will be filling an existing vacancy; Edward King, Andover High Junior Custodian. King will be filling an existing vacancy.

Ruby Easton was appointed to the position of high school debate coach at a $777 stipend. Easton is a guidance counselor at the high school and worked with the Academic Decathlon Team last year.

Special Needs Planning Session

Continued planning of a summer program for Special Needs students will be the focus of a meeting on Thursday, Feb. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the School Administration Building. Parents whose children do not fit into existing programs are invited.

Dolls For Democracy To Be Given School

For many years B'nai Brith Women has presented a special program, Dolls for Democracy, to fourth graders in Andover and North Andover. The dolls are George Washington Carver, Eleanor Roosevelt, Albert Einstein, Anne Frank, Helen Keller, John Fitzgerald Kennedy and Jim Thorpe.

Two of the dolls are introduced in each fourth grade class. The history and background of the dolls are given, followed by a brief question-and-answer period. The Dolls for Democracy program provides an educational and enjoyable experience for the children. The purpose of these dolls is to show that these noteworthy people of different racial, religions and national backgrounds devoted their lives to the service of mankind and helped make democracy work.

The dolls Albert Einstein and Helen Keller will be presented on Thursday, Feb. 13, to fourth graders at South School in Andover. The B'nai Brith women leading the program will be Alice Radack, Vicki Novick and Ellen Maltzman.

Dolls for Democracy has already been presented this year at Bancroft School in Andover and the Thompson, Kittredge, Atkinson and Franklin schools in North Andover. The leaders involved were Beth Shoemaker, Alice Radack, Sandy Shapiro, Vicki Novick, Sandi Yellenberg, Nancy Mayers and Michelle Shainker.

For further information concerning B'nai Brith Women and its Dolls for Democracy program, contact Sandi Yellenberg.

Blanchard House Furnishings To Be Topic Of Lecture

By Virginia Lopez Begg

Edward Cooke, assistant curator of American decorative arts and sculpture, will discuss the architecture and furnishings of the Andover Historical Society's headquarters, the Amos Blanchard House, on Sunday, Feb. 9, at 2 p.m. The public is welcome.

Built in 1819, the Amos Blanchard House is a fine example of federal architecture. Dr. Cooke will explore its design, trying to discern what Amos Blanchard was saying through the architecture of his substantial home. He will also discuss possible sources for the design ideas expressed in the house.

Dr. Cooke will show slides of recently refurbished rooms in the house, describing the functions of those rooms in the time of Amos Blanchard. The Best Parlor, the Family Parlor and the kitchen are several of these rooms.

He will suggest how these rooms might have been furnished and what the furniture of the period looked like in an attempt to recreate the everyday lives of the Blanchard family.

Refreshments will served and visitors may tour the rooms informally.

Dr. Cooke is a graduate of the Winterthur Program in early American Culture and has received a Ph.D. from Boston University's American and New England Studies Program. With many publications to his credit, he has had a great deal of experience with local historical societies, including having served as curator at the Concord Antiquarian Society. Dr. Cooke was consulting curator to the Andover Historical Society during its special research program last year.

The Andover Historical Society invites the public to this special presentation. There is a nominal admission fee for non-members. Snow date is February 16.

For information on open hours, exhibitions, tours, special events and membership, call the society office Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Coffee Hour Tuesday

"History on a Tabletop" is the title of a morning coffee at the Andover Historical Society, Tuesday, Feb. 11, at 9:30 a.m. Snow date is February 18.

The morning coffee committee will look at three periods in Andover history through the medium of tabletop fashions in dishes, glassware and silverware.

All the items discussed will be from the society's collections. This program presents visitors with the opportunity to see artifacts not on daily view at the society.

Members of the morning coffee group are Ruth Sharpe, Ruth Sherwood, Barbara Loomer, Jan Henderson, Bernice Haggerty and Marge Snell.

The world distance record for solo ballooning was set in 1984 when Joe Kittinger flew 3,535 miles from Maine to Italy in 84 hours.

Three Found Contentment In Ultimate Career Change

By Susan K. O'Neill

Mary Ann Berger works as an administrator in the Material Control department of a high-tech company.

Elizabeth Boynton teaches music at a local grammar school.

Joan Clarke is a public relations and marketing officer for the regional division of a large banking corporation.

Three different Andover women; three distinctly different careers. But, in spite of their apparent differences, the three have much in common.

Each has, to begin with, an obvious enthusiasm for the way she earns her paycheck. And, for each, reaching that point of job contentment has meant a complete change in career.

Career change is not rare; figures from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics note that, in the course of a given year, approximately 10 percent of the over-18 working population can be expected to switch occupations. The spectrum of change ranges from minor shifts—from a stenographer, say, to a bookkeeper—to complete changes of profession.

What is noteworthy is the proportion of women changing occupations. Statistics for men have stayed the same over the last 16 years, but the number of women who change within a year has risen from 6.6 percent in 1966 to 11.4 percent in 1982.

According to the experts, some women—especially those employed in traditionally low-paying "women's jobs"—change for money.

Some, like Elizabeth Boynton, change for love.

And some, like Mary Ann Berger and Joan Clark, are finding new openings in business and management fields that were once reluctant to employ women.

Whatever their motives, a conversation with three of the women behind the statistics reveals that change, and the satisfaction it may bring, belongs to those who earn it in spite of the risks.

"I think everybody wants to change careers. I bet there's a very high percentage of those who switch."

—Mary Ann Berger

Mary Ann Berger speaks quickly, with authority; her age is a secret that both she and her appearance successfully conspire to keep. With her glasses and her easy smile, Berger might be someone's mother—or a career businesswoman.

She is both.

Berger works for Honeywell of Lawrence, in the material control end of manufacturing, a field that she characterizes as "traditionally a men's world." As an administrator of the DPS7 Product Line for Honeywell of Lawrence, she explains, her responsibilities include writing purchase orders for a line of imported computers—buying enough materials to cover shipments and maintain a reasonable inventory, but not so much that her purchases become a liability to the company.

"It's not something you come off the street and go out and do," she says. "It's a very pressured situation."

Berger welcomes this pressure, however—unlike that posed by the profession for which she was trained.

Berger had majored in Art in college—primarily, she admits, because she had a scholarship and she didn't know what else she could do. "If you were a woman, you didn't have too many alternatives," she says. "You could be a secretary, a nurse, a teacher—there were very few choices."

After she sent her fourth child off to nursery school, she got her certification at Purdue University to teach Art in grades K thru 12.

For two years, she taught elementary school art in St. Louis. Then her husband, who was in engineering management at the time, took a job which brought the family to Massachusetts.

For one half year, Berger taught art on a junior high school level in Holyoke. "They absolutely destroyed me," she says. "I had to admit defeat."

With four children at home, Berger decided to become a full-time housewife/mother—a role she filled for seven years.

In 1976, the Bergers moved to Andover. Mary Ann began to think about her career.

Her specialty made her employable, even with the overcrowded teaching market. She interviewed for a job in the Andover school system—but it would have required her to run an entire department. "I was so insecure," she says, "that I didn't think I could do it."

One day, Berger met someone at the Museum of Fine Arts who was enrolled in Continuum, a Newton-based institution which provides occupational internships to individuals who are looking for a change in career.

Berger enrolled in Continuum in 1979. Continuum, at that time, featured three internships; Berger weathered two, then struck out on her own to make her own internship. Through her efforts, she eventually found an entry-level job with Honeywell.

That was nearly seven years ago. Since then, she has worked her way up to the level of Administrator, and has been selected to take part in an in-house management training program.

"I feel very good about myself," says Mary Ann Berger. "I feel like I know myself now. If a situation makes me uncomfortable now, I admit it—that it's just not my situation." The eyes behind the glasses are frank, amused. "If somebody asked me to 'draw something' today, I would simply refuse."

"I remember this one woman I worked with getting a corsage for 30 years. I remember thinking, 30 years for a corsage???"

—Elizabeth Boynton

It is between classes at West Elementary School. The music room is empty; Elizabeth Boynton sits in a metal folding chair from the semi-circle that faces the front of the room—her "stage."

"I will always be involved in music and the teaching of music," says Boynton. "I love what I'm doing."

At 28, Boynton is midway through her second year of teaching music at West. She moved to Andover for the job, as a recent graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music.

The Conservatory represents Boynton's second attempt—the successful one—at college education. After graduating from high school in Delmar, N. Y., in 1975, she enrolled in the Baldwin-Wallace Conservatory of Music in Cleveland, as a music major.

She dropped out after a year. "It just wasn't right; I wasn't ready to be in college at the time," she says.

"When I quit school, I had to do some-

I.D. Clinic

As part of Catholic Schools Week, St. Augustine's School sponsored a Children's Identification Clinic last Saturday for its students and family members. Dr. Frank Odum of Andover organized the clinic that included a package for each child containing information on their height, weight, fingerprints, a photo supplied by the parents and for the first time a toothprint. Over 300 children from the ages of three to 13 had a package made for them that should be updated every three years. Local doctors, police officers and school officials volunteered their time to man each station. Dr. Odum stressed the point that by having the clinic, parents, would be made more aware, in a positive way of the national problem of missing children. Photos clockwise from upper left: Six-year-old Megan Roth has a toothprint taken by Dr. Frank Odum. The print consist of a child biting down on a wax wafer that is inserted in the mouth, thus leaving an impression of the child's teeth on the wax; Four-year-old Matthew Elliott gets his height measurement taken by Roger Desjardins as his father, Norman looks on; Peter Burbank, three, bites down hard on the wax wafer with a little help from Hygienist Madeleine Fenro; Mary Ellen Lopez, 12, has her fingerprint taken by Det. Kevin Burke; Bobbie Pereira and her two children, Julie, seven and Ryan, four seek information on the I.D. package from Marjory Odum and Jean Elliott.

Travers and Taylor In Concert

Mary Travers and Livingston Taylor, two of folk music's best, put on a fine performance Saturday night at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts. Mary Travers, of Peter, Paul and Mary fame, entertained the audience with her sing-a-long and strong-meaning songs from the past as well as the present. Taylor opened the concert with just himself on guitar, playing some foot-stomping, hand clapping, unique story-telling songs that warmed-up the audience for Mary Travers. BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

If your baby is formula-fed, father automatically takes part. Mother and father can alternate feedings, depending on who's available. The baby isn't likely to complain. Breast-feeding, of course, is different. You can hand-express a relief bottle which the father can use for feeding, especially if you're planning to go out alone. Another role for the father, breast-feeding advocates say, is to provide moral support and companionship. The husband also can take over a larger share of the household duties and spend more time with the other children. That leaves you free more of the time for nursing and for the routine of baby care.

You will find the furniture to suit your decor at TINY TOTLAND. We carry baby furniture by Simmons, Childcraft, Bassett & Morigeaux. Baby toys...everything from "heaven to seven". Open 9-5:30. Medical Data Vials Available

The Greater Lawrence Community Action Council, Inc., will make available, free of charge, a kit which contains a vial, medical data sheets and emblems which are used to identify individuals with medical problems or who are currently taking special medications.

The vial is placed in the refrigerator and/or car glove compartment. A sticker is then placed on the outside of the refrigerator and glove compartment to alert people of the information inside the vial, should an emergency occur. Local area medical personnel have been trained to look for these stickers when responding to emergencies.

Kits are also available in Spanish. Although these kits are available to anyone with a medical problem, the elderly in particular are urged to obtain this potentially life-saving package. The kits may be obtained at the GLCAC, Inc., office, 350 Essex St., Lawrence, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Presentations may be arranged for groups or organizations by contacting Christie Kuzmitski or Corinee Lacharite at GLCAC, Inc.

The kits have been made available through the courtesy of St. John's Hospital in Lowell.

Tax Aid

Free Federal income tax assistance is available at Northern Essex Community College to students and individuals who cannot afford professional tax help, particularly low income, non-English speaking and handicapped taxpayers.

Taxpayers with relatively simple tax returns can obtain help in preparing the basic forms through the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program, sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service.

This program offers training to selected students who then assist taxpayers who need help.

Financial Planning On Agenda

The Greater Lawrence Chapter of the National Organization of Women will present a program on financial planning for women on Wednesday, Feb. 12, in North Parish Church, 190 Academy Road, Old North Andover Center, at 7:30 p.m.

Donna Doucette of IDS Financial Services, a professional financial planner with a master's degree in management and business, has conducted many local workshops in financial planning, retirement planning and IRAs. She has a special interest in women and feels strongly that women need to be aware of how financial issues affect their lives.

Doucette will present a starting point for each participant to identify and clarify her own financial goals. She will touch upon many of the basic concepts of financial planning, including budgeting, having a will, interest rates, investments and establishing an emergency fund. She will focus on several financial problems and roadblocks women often encounter (such as establishing credit in their own names). There will be a question-and-answer period and participants will be given a workbook to take home.

The Friendly Visitor Program of the Andover senior center will sponsor a photo print contest for the third year in a row in which each print will feature at least one elder. Prints may be brought to the senior center any weekday between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. now until Friday, April 4.

There are just three simple regulations: 1. submit up to three prints measuring no larger than 16"x20"; 2. the prints may be in color or in black and white; 3. contestants must live in or go to school in Andover, North Andover, Methuen or Lawrence. There are no age limits.

For further information, call Gwen Smith at the Andover senior center. Bring finished prints to her office, clearly identified by name and address. Subjects do not have to be identified, some will be unknown perhaps, but with the subject's permission, the names of the elders in the prints would be appreciated. Pick up the prints at the senior center after April 7 unless notified of a place in the competition for a prize. In that case, the prints will be on display until the end of May in prominent places in Andover.

Doherty Happenings

By Adam Galvin

As the beginning of the third term commences, Doherty is engaging in numerous activities. One such activity is the Heart to Heart program run for the entire student body. The first step in the program is passing out question sheets, provided by the Heart to Heart Company, to all students to be completed. We then send the completed sheets to the company and await the results. The company will determine the ten most likely girls or boys in your grade and the school that would be compatible with you. Another upcoming event is the eighth and ninth grade ski trip to Killington, Vermont. The students will leave Friday after school, reside at a Holiday Inn, enjoy two days of skiing and return home Sunday night. This highly anticipated trip will take place this weekend.

The Doherty boys and girls basketball teams are, as usual, a dominant force. The girls' team so far has gone unmatched, destroying all their opponents. The team is headed by the starting line of ninth graders, Julie Enos, Stephine Aumis, Julie Salazar and the one eighth grader, Jodi Jangro. The undefeated team is definitely likely to stay undefeated since they are a force.

Almost as good are the nearly undefeated boys who, unfortunately, have much higher skilled competition. The starting five, all ninth graders, are Steve Surette, Peter Kannam, Eric Guzowski, John Russel and Scott Lanawhet. Winning all but two of their games, the boys seem to be becoming stronger as the season progresses.

To Address Washington Conference

A lot of hawks are known as a cast.

Rep. Sue Tucker

Rep. Sue Tucker was invited to address a conference of the National Governors' Association in Washington, D.C., this week. The conference, entitled 'Focus on the First Sixty Months,' will bring together state leaders and national experts to identify strategies for early childhood programs.

According to Tucker, study after study has confirmed the value of early education and health care intervention programs in preventing many difficult social problems such as illiteracy, delinquency and learning disabilities. Head Start, for example, has an extraordinary record as a cost effective approach to human service delivery.

Tucker will join many child advocates, including Marian Wright Edelman and Gov. Martha Collins of Kentucky, in presenting specific ideas for raising community awareness for early childhood needs and gaining the support of business, legislators, educators and community organizations.

Everett Promoted

Robert E. Everett of Andover was recently appointed vice president and senior investment officer in the private banking and investments division of Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company.

Everett was previously with the Bank of New England as a manager of institutional portfolios and business development officer for institutional investments.

He began his banking career in 1968 at Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company, holding positions in real estate, estate settlement and investment management.

Historical Balladeer to Appear

Jim Douglas

Appointed

State Party Chairman Chet Atkins has announced that Maureen Garde of Brookline has been named executive director of the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee. She has been the deputy director since October 1985. Previous to joining the state committee staff, Garde served as district administrative assistant to Congressman Gerry Studds and directed field operations and fundraising activities in his re-election campaigns of 1980, 1982 and 1984.

Jim Douglas, a historical balladeer and Folkways recording artist, will present a children's program of New England songs on Saturday, Feb. 8, at 10 a.m. at the North Andover Historical Society, 153 Academy Road. The program will focus on music that was sung during farming activities such as apple-paring, husking "bees," sugaring-off "frolics" and barn raisings, activities typical of the agricultural community of North Andover.

Douglas is a performer at Old Sturbridge Village and has made appearances at many historical societies and schools throughout New England as well as on television and radio. One of the highlights of his performance is when he accompanies himself on 19th-century instruments such as the English concertina, mountain dulcimer, limberjack and guitar; another highlight is his effective use of audience participation.

Refreshments will follow. Children are encouraged to bring a pillow for the floor. Snow date is March 1 at 10 a.m.

The deepest fresh-water lake in the world is Lake Baikal: 5,712 feet.

Appreciation Day A Success

Appreciative

By Mark Marmer

After people had read in the paper every week about the low morale of teachers and students, the lack of attendance at school functions and apathy being at an all-time high at Andover High School, a funny thing happened. Someone said, "Let's do something about it." Thus, the idea of a Teacher Appreciation Day was born.

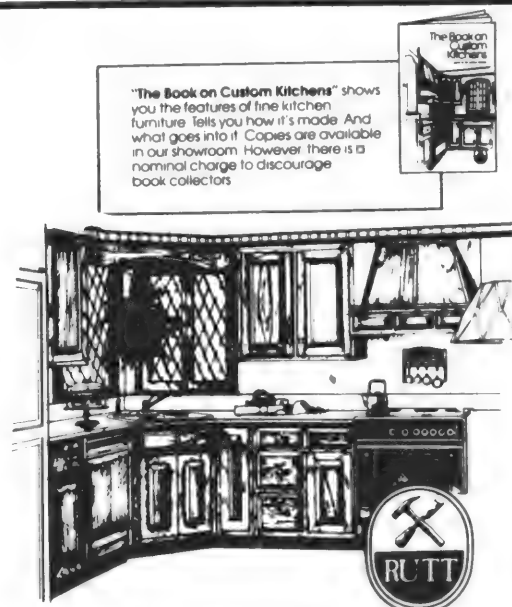

The goal of Teacher Appreciation Day, which was held last Friday, Jan. 31, was to "increase teacher morale, which in turn will improve student morale, which in turn will make Andover High a better place to be," said student government advisor Mike Marcoux.

Judging by the faculty's reaction to the events of the day, it was a huge success.

Michael Lynch, a science teacher, said, "It was very fulfilling. It made me proud to be a teacher again."

Appreciation

The day was sponsored by the Parent Advisory Council, the Andover High student government and other interested students.

When the staff arrived that morning, the famed rock outside the front of the school greeted them with the words "Thanx Teachers" painted on it. Each staff member, from teacher to secretary to cafeteria worker, wore a complementary corsage. The smiles on the teachers' faces widened as they were presented with an "all-you-can-eat" breakfast of bagels, doughnuts, pastries, juice and coffee.

Most students dressed up for the occasion and were extra polite to teachers. During midday homeroom, every staff member was given a personal, handwritten invitation to attend the school musical, "South Pacific," free of charge, in April.

In honor of Teacher Appreciation Day, a special edition of "The Beat," the high school's student-run newsletter, rolled off the presses. All teachers were asked about their most memorable experiences in their high school days and about their idols when they were growing up. Many of the responses were printed. Editors of the edition, Bob Manning and Mike O'Connell, worked overtime with their staff and layout personnel, Doug Rotundi and John McIntyre, to get it out on time. Each teacher received a copy.

Students were encouraged to write thank-you notes to one or more special teachers for spending extra time or showing extraordinary care. The 150-plus notes were dropped in a special box all week and were distributed during midday homeroom. To many teachers, this was the most touching part of the day because of the personal aspect of the letters.

By this time, the teachers were beaming. But, there was more to come. Co-presidents Helen Anderson and Sue Bishop and the rest of the Parent Advisory Council, as well as involved students, served a lunch of assorted meats, pizza, salad, quiche, rolls and beverages. Students waited on the faculty, refilling coffee and punch, serving dessert from a silver platter and cleaning up.

It was during this time that one student government member said, "Teacher morale has been boosted 20 decibels."

Perhaps the success of the day and the effect it had on the entire staff was best summed up by Peter Prince, a foreign language teacher. "This was the nicest day I've had in my last 15 years of teaching."

Muir Quartet To Play Classic Program At Center

Muir String Quartet

The Muir String Quartet, one of the most highly-regarded ensembles in the chamber music scene today, will perform their interpretations of such classic works as Mendelssohn's "Andante & Scherzo Opus 81," Beethoven's "Quartet in B-flat Major Opus 18," and Schubert's "Quartet in G-Major Opus 161" at Andover's J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts on Sunday, Feb. 16, at 7 p.m.

A relatively young group of chamber players, the Muir String Quartet has risen to international prominence over the past few years. They won the 1980 First Prize in the Evian International String Quartet competition and the 1981 Naumburg Chamber Music Award and have performed all over the country and in Europe. Perhaps its best-known appearance was in 1983 with the Juilliard Quartet on the PBS series "In Performance at the White House," a nationally televised special which drew critical acclaim.

The foursome, all graduates of the Curtis Institute of Music, met seven years ago with the exception of violinist Lucy Stoltzman, who is married to clarinetist Richard Stoltzman. She joined her colleagues in the spring of 1985 to become the newest member. The quartet studied chamber music with Felix Galimir, Mischa Schneider of the Budapest Quartet and Arnold Steinhardt and Michael Tree of the Guarneri Quartet.

The Muir String Quartet received the Edward R. Wardwell Fellowship in 1979, which awarded them a two-year residency at Yale University where they studied with Raphael Hilyer and Oscar Shumsky.

The members, currently in residence at Boston University, are Lucy Stoltzman and Bayla Keyes, violinists, Steven Ansell, violist, and Michael Reynolds, cellist.

Tickets are available at the Collins Center box office, Shawsheen Road, off Routes 133 and 93 in Andover.

Salvation Army

In 1865 a Methodist minister named William Booth left his church to preach instead as an independent evangelist in the slums of London's East End. His converts were many but they often didn't feel comfortable in churches. Booth set up Christian Mission Centers.

In 1878 Booth adopted the name The Salvation Army for his organization. Missions became known as corps; members were soldiers; ministers were officers; and Booth called himself the general. This different kind of army was furnished with uniforms, a flag, brass band and martial music.

Greek Church Plans Move To Andover

Sts. Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church, 825 Essex St., Lawrence, has begun its fund-raising to build a new edifice on its recently purchased property in Andover. The new church will be located at 63 Chandler Road, the former site of the Doyle Lumber Company.

According to Rev. Dr. George Karahalios pastor, and Helen Doikos, chairperson of the pledge committee, the move will serve the "ever-growing spiritual, cultural and social needs of the parishioners."

Projected in the neo-Byzantine style, the new church will eat 300 and have facilities for Sunday school, Greek Orthodox Youth Association (GOYA), PTA and other religious/cultural affiliated organizations.

The fund-raising drive's theme, "faith and initiative," stems from the lives of the church's patron saints. In Orthodox tradition, it was Helen, the mother of the Emperor Constantine, who, through her Christian devotion, sought and discovered the "True Cross." Constantine's efforts to unite the Roman Empire, move its capital to a more prominent and promising situation and end religious strife and heresy demonstrated leadership which also led to his conversion to Christianity.

The faith and initiative exemplified by these patrons represent a special heritage and responsibility to the parish.

Concurrently, this year marks the 50th anniversary of the congregation. This celebration's motto is "Illuminated by the past... encouraged by the present... we challenge the future." The building of a new church is a most appropriate way to commemorate a spiritual and historical legacy.

Pulpit Exchange Sunday

The Ballard Vale United Church (a United Methodist and United Church of Christ congregation) will participate in a special pulpit exchange of United Methodist Ministers in support of the capital fund campaign for the two camps owned by the Southern New England Conference of the United Methodist Church, Camp Aldersgate and the Rolling Ridge Conference Center in North Andover.

The Rev. Gary S. Cornell will preach at Westford and the Rev. James Mann, associate pastor at the Old South Church, Reading, will preach at the 10:30 a.m. service in Ballard Vale. The men of the church will meet at 8 a.m. for their monthly fellowship breakfast and have a staff person from Lazarus House in Lawrence as their speaker. Church school for adults is at 9:30 a.m. and for children at 10:30 a.m.

The congregation will mark the start of Lent on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 12, with a service of Holy Communion and an Invitation to the Observance of a Lenten Discipline. Members of Spirit-song Dance Choir will share in the Liturgy of the Word and the pastor will have "Lenten Fasting" as his meditation. The service will begin at 7 p.m.

Awareness Sunday At Church

Faith Lutheran Church in Andover has set aside February 9 as Alcohol and Drug Awareness Sunday.

Rev. Frederick E. Erson will preach at the 10:30 a.m. worship service on "The Bible Speaks About Alcohol." Rev. Erson serves on the Bishop's Task Force on Alcohol and Other Drugs (New England Synod - Lutheran Church in America). He has been involved in alcohol counseling for many years and works at Griffin Hospital in Derby, Conn.

After a small lunch, Rev. Erson will conduct a short workshop on alcohol and drug issues which will be directed especially to junior and senior high youth and adults.

The Awareness Sunday is a kickoff for an alcohol and drug education program beginning at Faith Church in response to the grim problems of alcohol and drug abuse among both children and adults. As Rev. Dennis Kohl, pastor at Faith, stated, "There is no one whose life is unaffected by the use and abuse of alcohol or drugs." The Social Ministry Committee hopes to host future projects which would involve other area churches.

To Discuss Problem Of Homelessness

The Christian Service Committee of St. Robert's Parish in Andover is sponsoring an information night on Sunday, Feb. 9, at 7 p.m. on homelessness and shelters. Representatives from Lazarus House in Lawrence, House of Hope in Lowell and Sojourner House in Roxbury will tell what they are doing to help respond to the growing problem of homelessness in our cities. There will be a slide presentation and a question-and-answer period afterwards.

The Christian service committee members extend an invitation to all interested in hearing more about homelessness and the role of shelters to come to this meeting at St. Robert's Parish Hall, 198 Haggetts Pond Road, Andover.

Fr. Bill Mullin, a member of the committee, said that he "hopes that a lot of people will take advantage of this opportunity to hear a first-hand analysis of the problem of homelessness and what churches and individuals can do to help alleviate this growing problem."

Why Eat Breakfast?

Breakfast is important because eight to 12 hours may have passed since a last meal was eaten. During this time, blood sugar level can become low and may get even lower by mid-morning, causing hunger and fatigue. That is why most nutritionists believe that for most individuals breakfast is an important meal. Nutrition experts recommend that a balanced breakfast provide about one-fourth of daily needs for essential nutrients and calories.

Borrow money to save money?
Sound crazy? Not necessarily, as more and more Andover Bank customers are finding out.

Let's face it, "tax time" finds many of us temporarily short on cash, and as attractive as IRA's are, if we don't have the funds to join, we simply have to pass up this excellent investment.

That's why we've developed a plan to allow you to borrow the funds to open or add to your Andover Bank IRA before April 15th, at an unusually attractive rate.

You'll gain two benefits immediately. First, your contribution will be tax deductible, and second, your earnings will be tax-deferred. And we'll show you how the tax benefits far outdistance the cost of your loan.

At Andover Bank, we're committed to helping you make the most of your future. And after all, your future is our future.

If you'd like more information, stop in today at the Andover Bank nearest you or call us at 475-6103.

Tank

Donn Byrne.

Acting Fire Chief Harold Hayes opposed the idea, explaining that bunkering propane tanks is dangerous because the supposed protection actually retains leaking fuel, which would ordinarily dissipate into the atmosphere.

Selectmen suggested burying the tanks.

Hayes said burial would be "all right, but we don't like to see it. Nobody knows the corrosive power of soil." A leak, he explained, could be found in an above-ground tank; but it could remain undetected if the tank were buried.

Selectman Jerry Silverman answered further discussion from abutters by saying that, in issues such as the one at hand, it was necessary to trust those who are hired to protect the public interest. "If the Fire Chief thought that there was something that would be harmful," he said, "He wouldn't approve it."

Then Silverman added, "What are kids doing on private property, anyway?"

The question brought an audible groan from one abutter; another explained that a playground is located across the street from the transmitter site.

In response to a question from the board, Acting Chief Hayes said that there have been grass fires in the area in the past, but that none of them had affected the existing propane tank. Asked by Chairman William Dalton what the worst thing that could happen to a propane tank might be, Hayes said, "Leaks."

Dalton asked the Bay State Gas representative about the company's monitoring of the site for leaks. The representative answered, "Our men make a visual check every time we make a delivery"—about six times per year.

Dalton then asked that the gas company send notification to the town that they have inspected the site on a quarterly basis. The Fire Chief termed quarterly inspection "more than adequate."

The vote for licensure was 4-1. Byrne explained his opposing vote by saying "I'm not satisfied with it."

Reached later, Raymond Mansour explained that WCCM would not have had to seek a license for the installation of two 1,000 gallon tanks on the site if they had been willing to remove the present smaller tank. Licenses are only required for storage of 2,000 gallons or more, he said, but the gallonage is determined by the water storage capacity of the tanks rather than the actual amount of gas being stored.

Because of the requirements imposed by the Civil Defense designation, the station decided to retain the smaller tank so it would have "a margin for error."

Mansour described the tank site as being surrounded by an eight-foot fence, which also enclosed a building. "I realize the concern of the neighbors," he said. "I'm not trying to minimize it." But permanent storage tanks, which he characterized as much stronger than temporary tanks, have been used in several sites throughout this area, he said. "In all installations of this nature that we have had, we've never had a problem with vandalism."

Roger M. Cohen, the Joseph Street resident who originated the petition for reconsideration, differed with Mansour on the site's vandalism potential. "That 500-gallon tank that's there right now—there's a little, small fence around it, and it's crushed," he said. "Anyone could get through."

He said that the object of his petition, which contained 17 names at press time, was to buy a delay. "I hope that they would not start to build it right away," he said, "and that, hopefully, it could come before town meeting." He added that he and other residents felt that the parties involved had not fully explored alternative tank locations—such as at the nearby Fire Department—or the possibility of changing the generator for an oil-fired model.

Another Joseph Street resident, Rose Babine, explained that she had witnessed an explosion at a natural gas pipe in Tewksbury 14 years ago—an explosion which, she said, had taken lives and shaken the surrounding homes. "I think sometimes there's not enough safety precautions taken," she said. "People don't think about it because they've never seen it happen."

Contacted at his office about the petition, Town Manager Kenneth Mahony said that the Parking Lot Design Standards Examined By Planners

During a public hearing at its Jan. 28 meeting, the Planning Board entertained suggestions from citizens on improving the wording of a proposed warrant article on parking lot design standards.

The article, labeled P-71 in the preliminary copy of the Town Meeting warrant, sets parking area regulations for factors such as number of spaces, dimensions, layout and landscaping. Audience members took exception to a proposed regulation that requires a "circulation system" within a lot to allow vehicles to exit without backing; they suggested that it would create a hardship in cases where the "lot" was a driveway for a multifamily dwelling.

Principal Planner Nancy Jeton noted that the point was well taken. She suggested that the board consider two possible ways of correcting the problem: by specifying that the rule, and other regulations that might create similar hardships, be individually exempted from enforcement in Residential zones, or by eliminating Residential zones from the standards altogether.

Another question, raised by Daniel Morin of Park Street, proved more puzzling to the board. At what point, Morin asked, did a change in the use of a building in the business district force its owner to conform to the new lot design standards?

Chairman Margaret Bradshaw initially answered Morin's question by saying that, "if you do come in and change a building's use, you would have to conform to the new bylaw."

"That's state law," agreed Robert Zollner, legal counsel for the Planning Board.

Morin gave an example of a building of mixed use, the parking to which had been considered acceptable in size and layout under grandfather clause. If one or more of the building's tenants changed from office to retail or vice versa, he postulated, and if new parking spaces (which had to fit the new bylaw rules) were added, would the grandfathered part of the parking area have to conform with new design standards as well?

Bradshaw guessed that it would, but neither the board nor Zollner seemed to be able to give a definite answer. "That's a very interesting law school question," said Zollner at the close of the hearing.

Also discussed within the public hearing format were:

- an article (P-72) that lists the criteria for Planning Board special permit application and the process through which that application must pass;

- an article (P-70) which would set standards for site plan review, a preliminary step through which commercial, industrial, institutional and certain multifamily building and expansion projects must pass before contractors will be granted building permits.

Boston Conservatory Move To Abbot Site Speculative

By Susan K. O'Neill

At this time, speculation on a move by the Boston Conservatory, a 119-year-old Boston-based music college, to the Phillips campus is just that—speculation—say officials at both schools.

William Seymour, president of the 420-student Conservatory, explained that he had been invited to a breakfast meeting at the Andover Inn on Jan. 13 to discuss the possibility of relocating his school to three buildings on the Abbot campus. The meeting, to which Phillips' officials and community leaders from the Andover area were also invited, was the brainchild of Congressman Chet Atkins, said Seymour.

"I've had one meeting with them," he said, "The breakfast meeting at Phillips. We agreed that we'd all go home and think about it—frankly, that's about where the issue's at."

Seymour admitted that the Conservatory is suffering from space constraints and has been considering expansion. The school, Boston's third-largest music/performing arts college (after the neighboring New England Conservatory of Music and the Berklee College of Music), is now located at Number 8 Fenway—an historic district in which upward expansion is prohibited. Nor is there room for expansion to surrounding property.

Seymour said that the school has looked at sites in suburbs surrounding Boston, but has not yet found a location that would be appropriate. When asked if he was giving the Andover site serious consideration, he answered, "I think the word 'serious' is the question mark. We're certainly considering it."

Although he said that he considered the Abbot campus buildings and the Andover location itself "a lovely site," Seymour listed a number of drawbacks to moving here. To begin with, he said, "As the Boston Conservatory, it seems ludicrous to be anywhere but Boston."

The school also relies heavily on professional musicians from Boston institutions, such as the Symphony Orchestra, he added; a move to Andover might affect its staffing potential.

Furthermore, the Conservatory's present site is within a short distance from Boston's cultural facilities. Andover's distance could present transportation difficulties.

If the Conservatory were to relocate to Phillips, Seymour said, it would have to renovate the buildings in question. He noted that the existence of the Collins Center could allow the school to delay its building of its own performing arts center for a few years, and that the Conservatory would also consider making use of community facilities, such as school auditoriums and churches, for individual performances and recitals.

Seymour said that he had no specific time frame for making a move to any location. "I'm more interested in making the right move than a fast move," he said.

Of the buildings at Phillips under consideration, two are presently vacant; one is leasing space to the Northeast Document Center. Phillips Academy Headmaster Donald McNemar said that the school and its trustees have been exploring a number of options for use of the buildings, which they acquired when the former girl's academy merged with Phillips in 1973. "We're delighted that there's another educational institution exploring the use of the Abbot Campus," he said.

He added that his board and the board of the Conservatory—both of which will be meeting within the next month—are busy deliberating, and that the issue is at a "very early stage."

Plans For Andover, Lawrence School At Emerson Discussed

By Lisa Waterman

Officials Probing Dorm Fire

The exact cause of a fire that occurred at Phillips Academy on Tuesday night is under investigation by the Andover Fire Department.

A spokesman for the Fire Department stated that the fire, which was called in at 7:08 p.m. Tuesday, was confined to a room in Day Hall South, a male dormitory located off Salem Street. According to a report quoted by Deputy Chief Harold Wright, the department responded to the call with two fire engines, a ladder truck and a car, to find that the blaze involving "primarily clothing and fabric" had been extinguished by students using dorm fire equipment.

Fire Department personnel returned from the scene, said Wright, at 8:31 p.m.

Phillips Academy Assistant Headmaster Peter McKee speculated that the blaze, which he said damaged a mattress, had been started by an unextinguished cigarette. The room was not occupied at the time, he said. Students noticed smoke from beneath the door and put out the fire, then called the fire department.

The Andover School Committee gave thumbs-up approval to Andover School Superintendent Kenneth Seifert and Lawrence Superintendent Eugene Thayer to pursue a "magnet" school on the Emerson College Campus that will serve students from Andover and Lawrence.

"Lawrence and Andover are a good example of an urban-suburban microcosm, this would be a chance for Emerson to study this type of environment and to do market research and to study urban/suburban interaction," Supt. Thayer told the school committee. "We should talk and work with our neighbors, we can only gain through this collaborative. Emerson would also be aided in its process of seeking university status from access to a professional staff in an elementary and secondary school district, a cable T.V. station, and a performing arts center."

In 1974, the legislature passed legislation that would allow school districts to operate as joint tenants of schools placed in more than one school district.

The use of Metco money (Metropolitan Council for Education Opportunities, in charge of desegregation activities) was proposed by Lawrence's superintendent for funding to construct the school on the Emerson campus that would house an Early Childhood-Grade 8 program for approximately 1,200 students and a Secondary program for about 100 high school students. Each group would participate on a volunteer basis.

"Metco allows for desegregation from suburbs into cities and cities into suburbs," Supt. Thayer said. "We would be eligible for 90 to a possible 100 percent funding from the state. The state might consider this as incentive for other communities to try this concept."

The Early Childhood-Grade 8 program would highlight communications: radio and T.V. productions—delivery and technology and comprehensive public speaking, science and technology, use of computers, tele-communications, biological sciences and communication disorders. Along with focusing on the high order of thinking skills and research and development skills, the secondary student program would include an advanced program of elementary experiences, a leadership institute and advanced placement. Staff development with inservice featuring electronics, tele-communications, curriculum development and educational leadership and management would be offered.

"This is some of the program we would like to offer as of now," Thayer said. "But it is subject to be changed or added to, considering the rapid changes in society and technology over the next five years."

School administrators were instructed by the school committee to find out the level of interest for participation from Emerson College President Allen E.

Koenig.

A Steering Committee comprised of Lawrence and Andover administrators and school committees, Emerson administrators and board of directors, financial representatives, media, parents of students, students and business and industry representatives will be formed.

Issues such as state funding, available land and who would govern the school would be addressed by the committee. A building committee would satellite the steering committee to report back to both school administrators and school committees and Emerson administrators as specific plans were drawn up for final approval, according to Seifert.

The need for greater understanding between the two communities, suburban and urban interaction and real life experiences for students would be benefits from the "magnet" school concept for Emerson, Andover and Lawrence, according to both superintendents.

Participation by Merrimack College and other colleges and universities in the area in the "magnet" school project was also suggested by school administrators.

"There is a wide range of possibilities of school districts straddling two communities. We should continue discussions on the Andover and Lawrence side with Emerson College," School Committee-man Michael Giammusso told the two school administrators.

A.C.T. Presents "Miracle Worker"

The Andover Community Theatre in conjunction with the Department of Community Services will present "The Miracle Worker," a play, based on the events in the life of Helen Keller, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 7 and 8, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 9, 3 p.m. The play will continue on Feb. 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the door or in advance at Butler's Pantry. Under the direction of Ron Wackowski, veteran director and performer for A.C.T., 17 talented cast members have undertaken this challenging play with enthusiasm. Many of the roles require a lot of insight and imagination. In addition to the obviously difficult portrayal of Helen, who is both blind and deaf, other roles require accents and strong temperaments. Also helping out behind the scenes are, Pam Le Mieux, producer, Marcelle Petitmaire, stage manager, and Gene Harris, lighting designer. Photos clockwise from upper left: Annie Sullivan, played by Kim Enders, teaches Helen Keller, played by Donna Kerr, a spelling technique with her close friend, Bell, the family dog, played by Sadie, nearby; Annie spends some time alone thinking about her dead brother, Jimmy. The voice of Jimmy Sullivan is played by Brad Litchfield (background); Helen discovers how the words Annie's been teaching her relate to objects. Eleventh Annual Rafton Outing Held

An overnight snow fall provided the Eleventh Annual Harold Rafton Reservation Cross-Country ski, hike and breakfast outing with a good amount of snow for the outing. As of Saturday morning (24 hours before the outing) the skiing did not look too promising because the reservation grounds had very little snow. But come Sunday morning, five inches of the white stuff had fallen, making it even a little difficult to travel to the outing. Photos clockwise from upper left: People gather for a little breakfast before hitting the trail; Phil Dargie goes cross-country skiing; Elisa Derby, 11, and her sister Jessica, seven, get themselves ready; Joe Holmes couldn't resist making a snowball before going on a cross country hike.

Trust In Planners

One must suspect that town meeting time has rolled around again.

Why else would the West Andover Neighborhood Association (WANA) be attending public meetings and hearings in large numbers, rather than the simple representative or two as is the case throughout the year.

The one most disturbing happening of this resumption of attentiveness to municipal operations took place at last week's planning board hearing on a proposed bylaw intended to protect Chandler Road property from industrial invasion either through building, access or traffic.

A spokesman for WANA virtually accused the planning board of putting forth the proposal with ulterior motives.

A room packed with WANA members, or West Andover residents, questioned what the underlying reasons were for making such a proposal. People are suspicious, the spokesman told the planners.

Such accusations are unwarranted in view of the diligence with which the town's planning department undertakes its difficult task of protecting the town and overseeing the growth of the community.

Now, it is perfectly understandable that West Andover residents adopt a parochial attitude toward their environs, even though there are such sections of Andover known as Ballardvale, Shawsheen, Shawsheen Heights, Lowell Junction, etc., with which municipal officials must be concerned.

WANA rose up in force a year ago to protest the proposed placement of a hockey rink in their area. The arena was to be a gift to the town.

Thus united, the group spoke out on other issues, giving every indication that their concerns were strictly personal in nature and hardly in consideration of the community as a whole.

This is the same group, although unorganized at the time, which protested the creation of a summer playground on town-owned land a few years back. The department of community services wanted to put some swings and other assorted paraphernalia in the area for the enjoyment of West Andover youngsters. The idea was dropped due to the protestations of residents of the area, expressing feelings that it could open the area to an unsavory element.

Despite the fact that the group expresses singular interests, it is good that there is some interest shown in the happenings of the town. Commentary, either pro or con, can only be beneficial to the town.

What is disturbing, however, is the suggestion of ulterior motives and distrust of actions of officials such as professional planners and unpaid volunteer planning board members.

Their actions and decisions, while we don't always agree, are based on considerable time, effort and study.

Respect is a more proper attitude with which to paint the planning department, not distrust.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — February 1911

Considerable excitement was created in the square on Tuesday morning, when a horse belonging to Mrs. E.G. Whipple became frightened and ran full speed up Main Street. Fortunately, there was no one in the sleigh, and no damage resulted from the episode.

A Lawrence man wanted in connection with the case of assault committed upon another man in that city on Tuesday morning, was arrested by Lawrence inspectors in a West Andover house. The man was found there on Wednesday morning and was sentenced yesterday morning in the Lawrence Police Court to a year in the House of Correction. The assault took place on Tuesday morning when four shots were fired from a 22-caliber revolver. The trouble arose over a game of cards.

A party made up of some of the girl employees of the Tyer Rubber Company, together with friends, enjoyed a sleigh ride to Lowell on Tuesday evening.

Miss Anne Sheperd of Andover sailed on Wednesday from New York on Hamburg for the Isle of Pines, Cuba, where she will spend two months.

An alarm, rung in from Box 28 shortly before noon on Tuesday, summoned the local fire company to a chimney fire at Freeman Abbotts. The firemen, by quick and efficient work, soon had the blaze under control.

50 Years Ago — February 1936

Leo Allison, 35, one of the town's most esteemed businessmen, was instantly killed about 10:30 p.m. on Saturday, when the Ford delivery truck which he was operating turned over after striking a snowbank on Route 28 in North Reading, just over the Andover line. The tragic death of the well-known young man stunned hundreds of people who had come to know him and respect him in his two decades of grocery work.

A tax rate of $30.20, a record high for Andover and one dollar higher than last year's rate, is forecast by the Town Finance Committee in the annual report on the town warrant.

The town will be asked to appropriate a sum of money at the annual town meeting for a new ambulance. The old ambulance broke down Saturday while carrying a patient. The patient had to be transferred to the North Andover ambulance.

The number of books issued for home use at Memorial Hall Library during January was 7,221. At Ballardvale, 684 were borrowed making a total circulation of 7,905 volumes for the month. This is an increase of 262 books over January 1935.

A warning not to overstress the delinquent child but rather to pay more attention to the prevention of delinquency in the normal child was sounded by Judge Louis S. Cox of the state's Superior Court in a very constructive and very inspirational talk given at a well attended meeting of the Andover-Teacher Association in Stowe school hall Wednesday evening.

25 Years Ago — February 1961

Town Meeting may be treated to an old-fashioned debate on municipal salaries and wages. Despite Town Manager Thomas E. Duff's assertion to the Selectman Monday night the agreement has been reached with employees on an increase, it has been learned that there is no agreement, and there may be none until town meeting

Managing The Sisyphean Parts

By Susan K. O'Neill

I was looking for the plural of the word "agenda" in Webster's the other day when I discovered, to my surprise, that it has no plural. It is plural. It means "things to be done."

Of course, we've murdered it into a sort of singular word. But consider what it would mean to us all if we used it as Webster obviously intended it.

Webster's usage would make it grammatically impossible to accuse someone—or, say, the town's government—of having a "hidden agenda."

Now, that would make some folks out there—the ones who follow local government council meetings—breathe a little more easily.

Of course, it would be grammatically correct for the boards to have "hidden agenda" (plural). That's lots of agenda—a concept that could lead to a massive dose of popular ("of or carried on by the common people") paranoia.

Or, perhaps, business as usual.

But consider this heartening thought: The Board of Selectmen have one agendum among every meeting's agenda which provides for a public forum (note: if you are a linguistic purist, two such agenda would yield two fora).

Where I grew up in the Midwest, we didn't believe too much in popular fora. Elected officials were experts; that's why we elected them.

That makes sense to me. Let's face it: democracy, such as we have here in Andover, is horribly inconvenient.

On the popular side, it requires a person with a gripe to drag himself out to a meeting—away from a candlelight dinner or from the Celtics game on T.V.—to take advantage of that agendum among the agenda that allows them to speak out. That's darned uncomfortable.

But democracy is an even bigger pain for those on the other side—the folks who run for and win (if you can call it winning) seats on town government boards.

Their tasks, under democracy, are sisyphean.

The word sisyphean has nothing to do with being a wimp. It derives from the story of Sisyphus, a king in Greek mythology who somehow managed to get himself condemned in Hades to roll a boulder up a hill—forever.

Sisyphean, therefore, means "endless and difficult." As in having to please all of the people all of the time, when some of them refuse to tell you what pleases them. As in being accused of having hidden agenda (plural) by those who aren't so pleased with the way you try to do your job—a job that takes you away from the Celtics or dinner by candlelight with a neglected spouse.

Frankly, though I get a kick out of exposing their human failings, I sometimes wonder how board members manage to play their sisyphean parts and remain sane—and, considering their schedules, married. As I see it, public service is the sort of thing that should only be undertaken by a masochist.

Or maybe an agapist—an unmarried person, or one who advocates celibacy."

acts.

Worried over the possibility that a child may be struck down, the Selectmen have urged that Andover build itself a reputation as a "tough town" on speeders.

Tyer Rubber Co., for many years a locally owned business, will pass from local control, subject to the approval of stock holders. Directors of the company have approved a plan that will have the company a fully owned subsidiary of Converse Rubber Co., of Malden.

The town lost about $964,500 in assessed real estate values in 1960 via land taking for Route 495. The loss represents about 30 cents on the tax rate.

Fiercely blazing oil from a space heater badly damaged a Chapman Avenue home Tuesday morning, but a mother and her five children escaped serious injury.

10 Years Ago — February 1976

Casimir J. Kolaski, 15 Carisbrooke St., announced his candidacy today for election to the Andover School Committee.

Andover schools are expected to remain open today. Strike or no. The teacher's contract dispute over salaries had reached crisis proportions yesterday, and the Andover Education Association was scheduled to take a strike vote at Merrimack College on Wednesday.

The lengthy negotiations over a new contract between the town and Dept. of Public Works was completed this week with an agreement on a 6.5 percent wage increase, effective July 1, 1976.

Admittedly, risking alienation of his colleagues on the School Committee and the professional staff, Chairman Frank Griggs said that a salary settlement with teachers was "not in the best interest of the Town of Andover."

permit for the storage had been issued the day after the meeting—which he said is standard procedure—and that, therefore, the matter could not be reconsidered by selectmen. It can, however, be discussed further, if the parties desire. "I'm going to put it on under 'Communication' for the (selectmen's) meeting Monday night," he said. He added that he will not be notifying the parties involved, but will leave participation up to them.

Concerning the potential for consideration of the issue at Town Meeting, Mahony said that the warrant has been closed since Jan. 6; no new articles can be added after that date. "I think that the only way the Town Meeting could act would be to change a bylaw," he said. Such a change this year would not be retroactive, he added, and would not affect the situation.

Warriors Defeated

The Andover High girls gymnastic team was defeated by Methuen High last Friday, 102 to 89.15 in the Methuen field house. Alison Butland was Andover's leading performer with a second and two third-places. Andover has two meets remaining, both away against Marblehead Feb. 6 and Lincoln Sudbury, Feb. 11. Warriors Impressive In Lawrence, Lowell Wins

By Michael Muldoon

Coach Tom Ryser's Golden Warriors defeated Lawrence and Lowell in two impressive performances last week.

Andover avenged an early season loss to Lawrence with an 81-69 victory. As has been the case most of the year, the Blue and Gold had to come from behind to earn the win. A 9-2 run late in the second quarter gave Lawrence a 33-32 halftime lead.

The Warriors' stingy defense gave them a 47-41 edge heading into the final stanza. Darren Currier's five points keyed an 8-0 Andover spurt that buried Lawrence. A Doug-Rotondi, in-your-face slam capped off the victory in style for the Warriors. Currier had 21 points and 10 boards while, as usual, Tim Perry led all scorers with 27 points. Andover won the game at the free throw stripe where they outscored Lawrence by 12 (31-19).

Tim Perry had 27 points, Currier 21, Rotondi 13, John Perry 8, Chris Bartley 4, John Klopacz 4, Mark Tucker 4. Lowell had beaten Andover seven straight times during the Ramon-Rivera era, but Andover snapped the streak with an 83-75 win Friday at Lowell.

The Red Raiders' suffocating press gave the Warriors fits early on. John Perry (10 assists and only 1 turnover) was inserted into the lineup and did a stellar job breaking the press. Lowell set a blistering pace and led 26-20 after a period of play. Slick shooting senior John Klopacz drilled three long jumpers in the second period to spur AHS to a 44-40 halftime lead.

Tim Perry's 17 second-half points shattered any Lowell come-back hopes. With 1:47 remaining in the physical contest, a brawl nearly broke out. Players and spectators from both towns exchanged glares, but cooler heads prevailed.

Tim Perry scored 30 points, Currier 16, John Perry 16, Rotondi 13, Klopacz 8.

Andover is now ranked seventh in the state with a 12-2 record.

Honorable Mention For McCullom

Mike McCullom, 338 Berry St., North Andover, a defensive tackle on Bowdoin College's football team, has been selected as honorable mention to the 1985 Pizza Hut Division III All-America team.

A national panel of sports information directors chooses the All-America team, which is divided into three offensive and defensive teams, and an honorable mention selection.

McCullom made 99 tackles on the year, which puts him in a three-way tie for the all-time record with Joe Curtin '84 and John Carnevale '85. He also made six sacks for the 5-3 Polar Bears.

"For a defensive tackle to lead a team in tackles, much less tie the record, is highly unusual and just proves what an outstanding player Mike was for us this year," said Head Coach Howard Vandersea. "His effort was outstanding and he is very deserving of this honor."

McCullom was presented the Boiled Owl Award at the team's breakup dinner this fall. This unique award is presented by the Bowdoin Club of Portland each year to the most aggressive and rugged varsity football player, as selected by his teammates.

McCullom, a graduate of The Brooks School in North Andover, is majoring in government.

Bowdoin won its last four games to finish at 5-3 this fall, its first winning record since 1980. Bowdoin was ranked fourth in the final New England Division III poll and won its second straight Colby-Bates-Bowdoin Conference title.

Tourney

Century 21 is sponsoring Easter Seal volleyball marathons throughout the state.

These marathons are annual events sponsored by Century 21 to raise money for Easter Seal services for people with disabilities.

Locally, games will be played at Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill on Friday, March 21, from 6 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. and Saturday, March 22, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Volleyball teams may be formed by companies, recreation leagues, civic organizations or any group of nine to 12 people who want to form a team and play for Easter Seals.

Midgets

Outskated

Tewksbury outskated the Andover Midgets to win 4-2. Andover was frustrated time and again by the Tewksbury goalies and their defensemen. Tewksbury took a 1-0 lead midway through the first period. Greg Kinsky got that goal back as he stuffed the puck past the Tewksbury goalie for an unassisted goal. Tewksbury scored three unanswered goals in the second period to take a 4-1 lead. Chris Patten scored off a face off in the third period to bring the score to 4-2. Andover dominated the third period, but could not catch Tewksbury. Tim Smith and Chris Hansberry led well in net and made several spectacular saves to keep Andover in the game.

Ballardvale Holds To Lead

By Rick Harrison and Bob French

Defending Senior Division champ Ballardvale United fought off a gallant fourth-quarter comeback bid by St. Robert's C, holding on for a taut 38-36 victory in their battle of Andover Church Basketball League unbeaten last week at the Doherty School gym.

The dramatic triumph enabled BU to retain a share of first-place with a perfect 5-0 record, while SRC fell to 4-1 overall.

In other Senior (13-15 years) action last week, St. Augustine A trimmed St. Augustine C, 41-26, Temple Emanuel tripped South Church, 41-26, and St. Augustine C handled South, 21-14.

The race for individual division scoring honors has heated up, with idle Kevin Murphy of St. Robert's A retaining his lead at 66 points. Brian Worcester of Ballardvale in a close second at 63, followed by Matt Perry of St. Robert's C at 58 and George Willard of St. Robert's A 53.

The probable title showdown between Ballardvale and St. Robert's A (6-0) will be played next Monday night (Feb. 11) at Doherty Junior High (6:30 p.m.).

Ballardvale United, 38-36

Ballardvale appeared to be in complete control of this contest, using a 9-2 second-period run to build a healthy 29-18 lead entering the final stanza.

But St. Robert's C opened the fourth quarter with a 10-2 run, the outside sniping of Matt Perry leading the way, and that trimmed the SRC deficit to 31-28 with five minutes left.

BU answered with five straight points to hike its lead back to eight, 36-28, with three minutes to go.

SRC's full-court pressure defense employed in the final period rattled Ballardvale for the next two minutes, however, and St. Robert's escaped on an 8-0 run to tie it 36-36.

SRC had possession of the ball with one minute to play, but elected not to hold for a final shot against the much taller BU squad. A quick shot was taken and missed, BU rebounding with 0:50 left.

Brian Worcester was immediately fouled in the backcourt, and he converted the front end of a 1-and-1 for a 37-36 Ballardvale edge.

With 11 seconds to go SRC missed a 1-and-1 free throw opportunity, and with seven seconds to play Doug Prugh of BU swished the front end of a 1-and-1 to make it 38-36.

SRC had one final bid at the buzzer, which would have forced overtime, but the shot missed connections.

Worcester, Prugh and Scott Adams played outstanding all-around games for the winners, Worcester finishing with 15 points, Prugh 10 and Adams 5.

Bartley Parker and John Hess contributed 4 points each to round out the BU attack, while Mike Nelligan played well defensively.

Matt Perry was immense for SRC, especially in the fourth quarter when he hit consistently on a variety of difficult shots.

Perry netted 12 of his game-high 22 points in that last period, while Mike Talty added 4 points and single baskets were delivered by Matt Moynihan, Danny Fay, Paul Lewis, Marc Selvitelli and Ed Sheehan.

Perry, Moynihan, Lewis, Fay and Selvitelli led the SRC defensive effort in the closing minutes.

Ballardvale actually won the game at the foul line, hitting 10-of-22 while St. Robert's C went 0-for-10. SRC held a wide 18-14 advantage in field goals.

Temple Emanuel, 41-26

Mickey Shallop tossed in 16 points for Temple, which raced to an 11-6 first-quarter lead and was never headed against South.

The winners led 20-9 at halftime and 35-18 after three.

Mark Leinson netted 7 points for Temple, Mark Shapiro and Mike Nizhnikov 3 apiece, and single buckets were pocketed by Mike Forlizzi, Scott Goddess, Steve Gack and Jason Weiner.

Jeremy Marmar and Craig Flashenberg swished a pair of free throws each.

A.J. Boucher countered with 10 points for South, Bill Koromhas added 6, Jon Usher 5, A.J. Boutin 3 and Bryan Boucher 2.

Adam Guild, Dan Booth and Steve Sorrie also played well for South.

Series

The Regional Health Center in Wilmington will present the program, "Preventing Heart Disease," on Wednesday, Feb. 19, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and will include a lecture and continental breakfast.

The program will provide a definition of cardiovascular disease, examine risk factors for developing this disease and describe lifestyle modifications to reduce the risk for developing the disease.

Since February is heart month, the center will also offer its cardiovascular risk assessment services to older adults at a reduced price. A cardiovascular risk assessment examines your level of risk for developing cardiovascular disease. Risk factors evaluated range from blood fat, sugar and cholesterol to blood pressure, stress and cigarette smoking.

St. Augustine C, 21-14

The victors broke open a tie game with a 12-7 third-quarter run, using that as a springboard to victory in this defensive struggle with South.

Randy Ying and John Bishop paced SAC with 6 points each, Chris Caltagirone and Dave Hughes collected 4 apiece, and Dave Ahouse notched a free throw.

A.J. Boutin sparked the South surge with 8 points, Bill Koromhas canned 3 free throws, Bryan Boucher had a basket and A.J. Boucher a charity toss.

St. Augustine A, 41-26

John Pike bagged 10 points in the third period to ignite a 14-4 St. Augustine A burst, as the winners broke open a tight contest en route to the decision over intra-church rival St. Augustine C.

The A-team was clinging to a slim 20-18 advantage at halftime before Pike went on a tear.

Pike was game-high sharpshooter with 22 points, Andy Collins added 8, Mike LeBreck 6, Kevin Friel 2, Brett Cox 2 and Jon Lane a free throw.

Randy Ying and Chris Caltagirone led the seven-player SAC assault with 6 points each, John Bishop and Mike Faye contributed 4 apiece, Don Lane 2, Dave Hughes 2 and Dave Ahouse a pair of free throws.

Retelle Tops Field

The Merrimack Valley Buddy Werner racers raced against a strong Dover-Sherborne team at Bradford on Sunday morning. Conditions were excellent due to the four inches of snow which had fallen the night before and, at race time, the sun broke through making the day one of the best of the season.

Terry Retelle, a seventh grade student at West Junior High School, continued his fine performance of the season with a win on a 35-gate slalom course.

First-year racers JoEllen De Feo and Jennifer Shapiro took third and sixth place while Taylor Gleason and Michael Kelley took a sixth and tenth place.

Newcomers J.J. Salvia, Danny Gilbride, Chris and Danielle Spires and Patrick Russo turned in good performances. Second-year racers John Costanzo, Chris, and helped less experienced racers. Mike and Steve Sintros have added to the strength of the team.

SPACE SAVERS

There are many space-saving ideas that can be incorporated into the planning of a new or renovated kitchen. Corner wall units can utilize much unused space in corners. A corner wall cabinet with lazy Susan shelving transform dead space into useable space. Small appliance garages are units that rest on the counter below the corner cabinet. Outlets placed inside the garage enable toasters and other appliances to be permanently plugged in, pulled out and be ready for use. Higher cabinetry, at 36 inches compared to standard 22 inch cabinet heights, affords even more storage space. Spice drawer inserts are ideal for in-drawer storage of spices and seasonings. Tilt-out racks can be installed in the blank drawer panels found in sinks, making efficient use of previously empty space.

Pee Wee B's Lose Heartbreaker

The PeeWee B's lost a heabreaker to a tough North Middlesex team last Saturday 3-1. Mike Daley played a terrific game in the net, stopping many strong shots. The one Andover goal was scored by his brother, Bobby Daley, up from the Squirt A's to help out. The B's have been playing some decent hockey against strong opponents over the past two weeks.

They lost a squeaker to Salem 2-0 on Friday night. The last time they met Salem they came away victorious. After a scoreless first period, Salem broke out and got two quick goals and kept Andover off the board for the remainder of the game.

The team traveled to Tyngsboro during a snow storm on Saturday to play the New Hampshire Nighthawks. Matt Tanner, assisted by Tim Fox, dropped a perfect pass onto Billy Owens' stick to put Andover one up. The rest of the period Michael Walsh and Bobby Sheehan teamed up to play some of the strongest defense of all year to keep the Nighthawks scoreless. By the third period, Andover's penalty minutes caught up with them and good offensive plays by Greg Affarian, Pete O'Shea and Joe Liguori could not keep the Nighthawks off the board and they won 3-1.

The B's played their best hockey on Friday night and came away with a solid 3-1 victory over Danvers. Bolstered by strong goaltending by Mike Daley and heads-up hockey by Danny Feeley and Jay Coburn, the team took off, scoring early in the first period on a goal by Owens. Pete O'Shea put Andover up two goals, assist by Greg Affarian. Victory was sealed in the third period with a beautiful pass from Tim Fox to Owens to take the game 3-0, a shutout for Daley.

Trailing 9-7 after one quarter, the winners took a 17-12 halftime lead, increased it to 25-17 after three and then managed to hold off a comeback bid by SRB.

Hamilton finished with 13 for SAD, Ferris had 8, Tadg Corkery, Todd Murray and Gerry Carrol had single baskets.

Joey Marinaro and Chris Dziadosz shared scoring honors for SRB with 7 points each, Greg Poor chipped in 5 and Stephen Shepard 4.

Temple Emanuel A, 17-8

TEA led at all junctures to register their initial win of the season over South B.

They took an early 4-2 first-quarter lead and increased it slowly, but surely. It was 10-4 at halftime and 12-5 after three.

St. Robert's In League Lead

St. Robert's C took over sole possession of first place in the Andover Church Basketball League Intermediate Girls' Division following action last week at the West Elementary gym. SRC hiked its record to 5-0 as it decided previously undefeated Christ Church 33-15.

Ballardvale United toppled St. Robert's B 19-10 and St. Augustine's B nipped St. Augustine's A 9-8.

St. Robert's C, 33-15

Joanne McNamara and Diane Castignoli tossed in six first-period points each as St. Robert's C broke from the gate with a 17-2 burst to quickly put the game out of reach for title contenders Christ Church. CC played good ball, but could never overcome the first quarter scoring spree of the victors.

McNamara finished game-high with 13 points, Castignoli added 9, Sheila Camillus 7 and Kathryn Gryzbinski 4.

Kerry Hagerty and Elizabeth Hanson led CC with 4 points each, Becky Robinson had 3, Nicole Angelos 2 and Diane Bowman 2.

Ballardvale United, 19-10

Ballardvale United used a balanced scoring attack to key the win, but didn't sew up the game until the fourth quarter when they outscored St. Robert's B 4-0.

SRB stayed within striking distance for most of the contest, trailing 4-3 after the opening period, 9-6 at halftime and 15-10 after three Lindsey Sweeney paced the BU offense with 6 points, Melissa Salazar had 4, Rachel Roberts 3, Heather Rotondi 3, Linda Banzi 2 and Erin McCloskey converted a free throw.

Karen Babine had 5 points for SRB, Karen Broderick 2, Kristen Simko 2 and Lynn Baker tossed in a free throw.

St. Augustine's B, 9-8

Trailing 5-2 at halftime, SAB outscored their intra-church rival, St. Augustine's A, 7-3 over the final two quarters to capture their first win of the season.

Danielle Costanza and Andrea Duffy shared scoring honors for the victors with four points each, Una Gauthier netted a foul shot, while Karyn Ragones, Amy Brocklesby and Kelly Walsh played well.

Lisa Belmonte was top sharpshooter for SAA with 5 points, Amy Cassidy had 2, Susanne Gemmell notched a free throw while Nancy Hofman, Virginia Blais, Eliza Wilson and Katie Hansberry were defensive stalwarts.

Competes In Slalom

Jana Caldwell of Andover competed in the Women's Eastern Championship Series Giant Slalom and Slalom races at Attitash on January 6-7. She placed fourth in the Slalom events with a time of 1:48.16.

The Women's Eastern Championship Series, sponsored by Dr. Pepper and 7/11 stores, is recognized to be a premier regional alpine development series in the U.S. Most of the top college carnival circuit female racers and members of the U.S. Ski Team National Training Group were represented for this internationally sanctioned series.

This event will serve as a stepping stone for these talented skiers to move up to higher levels of competition. The fastest racers will compete in the U.S. National Championships, European competitions and the prestigious North American Trophy Series.

Attitash's FIS-approved Spillway trail was the site of this competition. Spillway, renowned for its interesting and varied terrain, was an excellent test of wills for these top female competitors.

America's Best At Haverhill

What's the second biggest participant sport in the world? With the recent fervor surrounding the Super Bowl, you may be tempted to say football—but you would be wrong. If someone tells you the answer is indoor badminton you would probably ask which medication he was using.

The simple fact is that indoor badminton, the fastest racket sport, is second only behind soccer as a participant sport. It eclipses tennis in countries such as England, Denmark, China and Indonesia.

On February 7, 8, and 9, 120 of the U.S. and Canada's top players will assemble at Cedardale, Haverhill, to compete in the New England Open, which is fast becoming the most prestigious tournament in this country. This is the last major event before the world championship in Toronto at the end of February. The entire U.S. team will be at Cedardale as a final preparation for Toronto.

Some of the top contenders come from New England, with Guy Rittman and Barbie McKinley of Wellesley ranked in the top 10 nationwide. Andover's young Paul McAdam, fresh from his December win in the Eastern States Junior Open, will be there and is likely to make his mark in the adult ranks.

The tournament starts at 2 p.m. on Friday with finals on Sunday at 10 a.m. Cedardale welcomes spectators, for a small entry fee. A dinner-dance will be open to the public on Saturday night. The evening starts at 5 p.m. with cocktails while watching the semifinals. Those interested should contact John Msadam.

Cinderella

"Cinderella" will be performed by the Boston Children's Theatre at New England Life Hall, 225 Clarendon St., Boston, February 14 at 7 p.m. and at 2 p.m. through February vacation. Tickets are still available for some performances.

Susan Lutz Starting Center

Susan Lutz, a 1984 graduate of Andover High School, is the starting center for the Pine Manor college basketball team. Her strong inside game is a critical factor in the success of the Gator's high pressure, running style of play.

Lutz recently had a season-high 12 rebounds in a victory over Babson College and has led the team in rebounds for the entire season, averaging more than eight per game.

Pine Manor's head coach Tom McCarthy sees good things happening in the future for Lutz and the Gators. "She is just beginning to realize she can have a positive effect on the outcome of every game. We are very fortunate to have Susan in our program."

Pine Manor's record currently stands at 10-4 and the Gators are riding high on a seven-game winning streak.

Perry Paces Colby

Ernie Perry, a junior at Colby, Waterville, Maine, has been ranked fifth in assists among the individual statistics by the Maine College Basketball Coaches Association. In 12 games, he had 84 assists, averaging seven per game.

In a recent game against Bowdoin College, he scored 23 points and hit four free throws. Colby lost 72-76 in overtime to Amherst during Winter Family Weekend. Perry scored 13 points, had seven assists, six rebounds and four steals.

Perry, son of Mr and Mrs. Ernest Perry, Dacom Road, Andover, is a graduate of Andover High School.

Cashman, Pothier, Murnane Shine

Goalie Mike Murnane engineered a shutout and Chris Cashman and Chris Pothier provided the scoring punch as the Andover Pee Wee A team topped Amesbury 2-0 in a recent Valley Youth Hockey League game at Merrimack College. Murnane's efforts were an important factor, considering Andover's uncanny ability to hit the post. Sean Darwin banged the puck off the metal at least four times and Frank Morey and Don Fraser had scoring opportunities stopped in the same frustrating way.

Cashman's goal hit the inside top corner on a wrist shot; Pothier's came after some ferocious scrambling around the net.

Mike Ristuccia played a fine game, starting many rushes from the blue line; Ed Thistle was a constant threat to the Amesbury defense.

Todd Allard, Gary Bleszinski and Jim Morris kept the Andover end neat and clean to help Murnane preserve the shutout.

INFORMATION CONCERNING CABLE TELEVISION FOR EVERYONE.

By Jim Novo, FEBRUARY 6, 1986

VALUE OF BASIC Final part

Why have the numbers of people ordering through Direct Response Television grown over the years, much to the delight of advertisers and the stations? Because the ads have been reaching more people. And how is it that they reach more people, without incrementally costing the station more money?

The growth of cable television. The fact that someone in Vermont responds to an ad they saw on WSBK channel 38 is good news for the station, the advertiser, and hopefully the consumer. Those additional responses allow the station to increase their rates to advertisers, generating more revenue, which is used to purchase better programming. Better programs generate more responses, and so forth. Now that the station, the advertiser, and the viewer are better off, what's in it for cable?

"When I quit school, I had to do something," says Boynton. "So I worked in a bank. Advancing in a bank is very easy; it's a natural transition to investment."

Boynton made the transition, landing a job as a bookkeeper at E.F. Hutton in Albany.

Boynton explains that, as a bookkeeper, she was on her way to becoming an investment broker. She was learning the "tricks of the trade." After four years at E.F. Hutton, she says, "I was familiar with all the language; I had made all the contacts. I probably would have gone to New York City or Boston for training."

At the same time that Boynton was traveling a career path that led toward a risk-charged but ultimately high-paying profession, she was spending her evenings with her first love—music. A flutist, she was performing in local orchestras after work.

Faced with the need to make a decision about her future, Boynton weighed her options. To become a broker, she would have to make a commitment to training; to devote her future to music, she would have to return to college, and she would have to accept the limitations of the field in regards to her future earning potential.

Love triumphed over economics. "I had thought that maybe having it (music) part-time would satisfy me," Boynton says, "But it didn't."

Boynton packed up her savings and auditioned at several music schools; ultimately, she entered the Boston Conservatory.

Boynton now augments her teaching salary by giving lessons and by performing in musical groups and at weddings. Hers is a lifestyle that, she jokes, is designed to keep her single.

"When I think about what I could be making at E.F. Hutton," she says with a laugh, "The difference is—it's devastating." But Boynton has no regrets. Asked if she finds life as a music teacher difficult, she pauses. Then she says, "No. This is normal—the office lifestyle was what was difficult." ...

"I've moved onto a new plateau; I believe that we have to change with a changing world."

—Joan Clarke

Joan Clarke's precisely-coiffed blond hair, pin-striped suit, and erect posture fit the setting—a boardroom at the Norfolk County office of BayBank. She speaks with a quiet firmness; she gives an impression of seasoned ability, and the kind of control that gets the job done.

The job that Joan Clarke gets done for BayBank/Norfolk County Trust Co. of BayBanks, Inc., is that of Marketing Officer. She deals in public relations and communication—which includes such diverse duties as gathering material for the corporate newsletter, tending to branch openings and celebrity appearances within her area, arranging for publicity, and ordering "giveaways" for special bank events.

The job requires organizational know-how and professional "cool." Clarke trained for her position by teaching elementary school for several years in New York City and on Long Island.

Because of a change in her husband's employment, Clarke and her family relocated to Andover nine years ago. Unlike Berger, Clarke loved teaching—but "there weren't any jobs for teachers nine years ago," she explains. "Essentially, I decided to stay home and raise my two teenagers." Her other two children were in college at the time.

To fill her time at home, Clarke worked as a volunteer in church and community organizations—including the Andover Newcomers Group, for which she served as Chairwoman for the Hospitality and Activities Committees.

In time, Clarke decided that she had to do something else with her life. The teaching situation had not really improved, and she was unsure about her potential for other employment. "I knew I didn't want to do just anything, and I knew I didn't want to go back to school," she says.

In 1980, she chanced upon a newspaper ad for Continuum. Clarke considered the program, calling former Continuum participants—among them, Mary Ann Berger. She enrolled in 1981, the day after she sent her youngest son off to Duke University.

Her second internship with the program put her in the marketing department of BayBank/Norfolk; when a position as a marketing assistant became available, she applied—and was hired.

She has worked at BayBank for nearly five years, during which she was promoted to her present rank, which gives her line responsibility for other employees.

"Marketing is not that great a difference from teaching," says Clarke. "It requires organization, 'people' skills, public speaking—and I have no problem with that; I've been doing it in front of a class for years."

Berger, Boynton and Clarke have adapted well to their new careers. But in each case, the transition was not made without difficulties.

To begin with, for Berger, the price of the internship program presented a psychological obstacle. She admits that the thought of risking a sizeable amount of money—on herself—gave her pause. The program purported to be an employment tool, but it did not guarantee her a job.

Through the counseling and internships Continuum provided, Berger found that she had strengths, in spite of her lack of specific training—and that, with confidence, she could use these strengths to make herself a new career.

After dropping out of Continuum—"I asked myself, why should I go all the way into Boston for a third internship when I could make my own?" she explains—Berger still didn't know what she wanted to do. She did, however, know that she wanted to work in manufacturing—so she sent out letters of inquiry to local manufacturing companies.

In her letters, Berger says, she asked for experience—not pay. "I asked, 'Where do you think I fit in your industry?'" she says. In effect, she was willing to work for free—to set up her own internship—once she discovered her field of interest.

She wrote approximately a dozen letters; more than half netted her invitations to "informational" interviews.

"To go in and ask for an interview for a job—that's like groveling," says Berger. "Instead, you ask for information. And you make sure you walk away from your interview with another name—another person or two to contact for further information."

Through the interviews, Berger ultimately narrowed her job sights to Material Control. Then one day a representative from Honeywell, responding to her inquiry, apologized that he could not help out with information. All he had to offer was a job opening in the Material Control Department.

Berger credits Honeywell with training her well—and patiently. She has moved up quickly in the company, and she feels that her age and her sex have not held her back. "If a woman can produce, they're happy to find her," she says of prospective employers in her field.

"Nobody said it would be easy—and it isn't," says Berger of the transition. She notes that her family—and particularly her husband—supported her throughout the disruption of her self-help quest. "I think that's a part of their happiness, too," she adds, "If they see that you're happy."

In Boynton's case, changing careers meant an initial major change of status—from worker to college underclassman. As a student, Boynton received two unexpected jolts. The first was that she would need more credits for graduation than she had anticipated. "There was so much time missed," she says, shaking her head. "There were times when I just said, oh, it just wasn't fair—it would be so much easier the other way..."

Boynton's second surprise was that, in spite of her savings, she would need more money to go

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

Get your cameras out! The Friendly Visitor Program of Andover is announcing its third annual photo print contest. Open to all residents of the Greater Lawrence area, including Salem, N.H., the deadline is Friday, April 4. Photos, either black and white or color and not exceed-to school. She took out loans and gave lessons; she even worked for the school as—not surprisingly—a bookkeeper. "The parents of my students helped, too," she adds. "They were very supportive."

Boynton's parents were also very supportive. They were familiar with change; her father had successfully changed careers in mid-life. "They just sort of let me suffer," she laughs, "until I got through it."

Although the experience was far from easy, Boynton firmly believes that returning to college as an older student gave her a number of advantages. "I got much more out of school when I knew I wanted to do it," she says.

Although her family also supported her transition, Clarke found herself defensive when her decision was challenged by peers who could not understand why she wanted to go back to work when, economically, she didn't have to.

Prior to taking the internship, she was also handicapped by her own self-doubt. "I approached it feeling, 'Gee—all I'm equipped to do is teach,'" she says. "Teaching was very structured; the office was a mystery world."

Through the program's counseling and internships, Clarke feels that she, like Berger, gained a knowledge of her self-worth. Also like Berger, she stresses that programs like Continuum are a tool, not an employment agency. "Nothing comes to you," she says. "You have to get out and get it for yourself."

In her present position, she feels that she has a strong potential for upward mobility. "I do think there are disadvantages in not having the academic background," she admits, but she feels that her age and sex are not important job factors. "It's all based on what you have to offer, yourself," she says. "I don't think ability is based on age."

In the end, says Clarke, the key to changing careers lies in "risk-taking. You could fall on your face," she says; "you could be embarrassed."

Berger, Boynton and Clark seem to agree that the risks can be worth the gain. Mary Ann Berger puts it succinctly: "I feel like I'm in tune with what's happening in the world."

ing 16x20" in size, may be brought to Gwen Smith at the senior center any weekday between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Subject of the photo must include at least one senior citizen. If there are any questions, call Gwen Smith, Friendly Visitor coordinator, at the senior center (470-3830). Winners will be announced April 7, after which non-winners may claim their photos. First, second and third place winners will have their photos on display at various public places until the end of May. There will be prizes, too.

There is still room on the February 25 trip to the Science Museum and the Halley's Comet program. Cost for day, including lunch at Anton's in Cambridge, is $16.

Only a handful of tickets remain for the Valentine Party at the center February 13. One dollar for residents, $2 for non-residents for this roast beef dinner and lovely party.

Spring is coming. Why not help it along by joining us in our trip to the Boston Flower Show March 11? Cost for the day, including lunch, is only $20. Get out of the winter doldrums and enjoy the promise of better things to come. Go to the Flower Show.

Ever tried belly dancing? We have a gorgeous Greek dinner for you, followed by live entertainment, including belly dancing, and even more—lessons for you. You have a choice of chicken or shish kabob, too, and all for $16. Sign up now for this March 27 event. You'll be glad you did.

Know someone with heart problems? Could that someone be you? There will be a two-hour program at the center on Heart Healthy Issues on Tuesday, Feb. 18, at 12:30 p.m. This is the first of two sessions, the second scheduled for February 25 and you should plan to attend both.

Learn how to be kind to your heart.

Next Tuesday the mini-clinic will be held at Stowe Court from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. People are seen by appointment only. The clinic includes blood pressure check, urinalysis, weight help and guidance and referral for any discernable medical problems.

Not long from now, the padded profiles of winter will give way to spring sophistication.

If you happen to discover that your "excess winter insulation" didn't melt away when the snow did, Chique Physique can shake your body out of its winter lethargy—and start you back on the road to that trim, healthy body that will fit sleekly beneath spring's glamorous wear.

Whatever your age, Chique Physique, the new women's spa that's located on the second floor at 90 Main St., Andover, can find a program that's perfect for you. Original basic and advanced aerobics routines, jazz, life cycle, weight training and nautilus, spot-trimming, flexibility exercises, even an over-40's class set to music of the big bands; Chique Physique has it all—tailored to your needs.

Owner Annette L. Minichiello, a certified nutritionist and fitness consultant, offers her members a complete physical analysis—including tests for flexibility, body fat percentage, blood pressure, cardiovascular fitness, water retention and general nutrition. "Our tests help determine the specific goals a client should set," she says. "We don't just hand everyone the same program."

In addition to diet plans, sophisticated exercise equipment, and group exercise and aerobic classes—a combination of fitness and fun supervised by Minichiello's expert staff—Chique Physique offers its members special luxuries—a sauna and steam room, the Eurotan tanning bed, the services of a professional masseuse and, soon, manicures, pedicures and cosmetic face-lifts.

A year's full membership in Chique Physique makes you a member of the International Physical Fitness Association—which gives you membership privileges in any IPF facility throughout the world. Chique Physique also offers 3- and 6-month memberships, payment by the class, and tanning room memberships. You can even make an appointment for a free guest visit—just call 475-7838.

BUSINESS PROFILESHilda's Hair Salon: A Gift of Beauty

Some Valentine's Day gifts are fattening; some can make you sneeze.

But there is one gift that your Valentine will use with love—one that will give her a fresh outlook during this blah season. One that won't add pounds or pollen.

This perfect Valentine's day present? A gift of beauty from Hilda's Hair Stylist salon in Shawshoan Plaza, Andover.

A gift certificate for a cut and blow-dry, perhaps. Or a certificate for a perm—Hilda and her staff specialize in permanent waving. Whatever service it covers, it's a gift that allows her to sit back; to have skilled hands work their magic while she relaxes and enjoys—all at a time that's convenient to her.

Hilda Privitera's expertise is backed by nearly 25 years of experience. Her salon is large, airy and served by ample parking. She and her well-trained staff use the best of products, custom-matching them to each client's hair. It's a combination of ingredients that can't miss—a mix that will turn your Valentine's February into a breath of spring.

As always, Hilda is giving her own special Valentine to her favorite return clients—permanent wave specials every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for senior citizens.

She's also giving a bit of love to her younger customers: for the month of February, all haircuts for children under 12 will cost $7.

Take advantage of Hilda's generosity—or show your own by giving your Valentine a gift of thoughtfulness. A gift that won't go to her hips; one that won't wilt within a week. Give her a gift of beauty—a gift certificate for her favorite deluxe treatment at Hilda's.

Hilda's is open M,T & W 9-5:30; Th, Fri 9-9; Sat 8-5. Hilda and her staff offer complete hair care for men, women and children.

Love, Sweet Love

Memorial Hall Library's Friday Evening Film series resumes on Friday, Feb. 14, with "Naughty Marietta," starring the famous romantic duo of Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. This eight-week series, entitled "Love, Sweet Love," features some classic love stories, including "Pygmalion," "Brief Encounter" and "Captain's Paradise."

A brochure listing dates and titles is available in the main reading room. All showings are at 7:30 p.m. and are open to the public at no charge. Films in this series have been provided as a service of the Eastern Massachusetts Regional Library System, a program funded by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Income Tax Information

Many residents discover that the library is an excellent source of information for aids to tax preparation as tax time rolls around. Copies of the U.S. Master Tax Guide, H&R Block's Income Tax Workbook, Moody's Dividend Record and annual reports, including all companies listed on the New York and American stock exchanges, on microfiche are in the business section and on special display at the library. The library also has a set of federal and state forms which may be photocopied.

The I.R.S. has provided Tax Tapes, a cassette with step-by-step instructions to complete federal forms 1040EZ, 1040A and Schedule 1 and 1040 and Schedules A, B & W. The cassette is available for borrowing at the circulation desk.

The boundaries of the Flood Hazard Overlay District shall, however, enclose all those areas designated Zone A, Zone A6, or Zone A9 on Federal Insurance Administration (FIA) maps titled "Flood Insurance Rate Maps, Town of Andover, MA," effective date August 1, 1978, and a Floodway is designated as shown on F.I.A. maps entitled "Flood Boundary and Floodway Maps, Town of Andover, MA," effective date August 1, 1978, in both cases as further specified in F.I.A. Any land lying within such overlay districts shall also be subject to and have the benefit of the development and use regulations for the applicable underlying district(s) and shall, in addition, conform to three additional regulations of the one or more overlay districts in which the land lies.

In the event of any conflict between the regulations of two or more overlay districts which apply to the same parcel of land, or in the event of conflict between an underlying district(s) and an overlay district affecting it, the conflict shall be resolved by applying the most restrictive regulations."

(4) That a new Section IV.C. "Overlay District Use Regulations," is added to read:

RE-LISTING YOUR HOUSE

The listing agreement with your real estate agent is about to expire and the house has not sold. What to do? Should you re-list with the agent? Change agents? Change the type of listing? This is the time to consider not only these, but other questions even more fundamental to sale prospects.

Market conditions.

Has the real estate market in your area been stable during the listing period, or has it been soft with slow sales, been affected by a recession or by extraordinary unemployment?

House price. Is your house realistically priced? Compare the price with comparable property sales and in relation to the region's economic climate.

Property condition. Consider the price in relation to age of the house, states of repair and upkeep of house and grounds.

Now, discuss each item in detail with your agent.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Pouchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

By Wanda Farr
Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

CLOSING COSTS

When deciding how much money you'll need to buy a new home, you should consider all of the funds you'll need to bring to the settlement table. You've probably already figured out how much of a down payment you'll need, but don't forget about your closing costs.

Closing costs can vary, depending upon the costs of your financing and the time of the month when you settle. Your Realtor or the loan officer handling your mortgage application will be able to give you an estimate. It should include the points on your loan, private mortgage insurance (if your lender requires it), the title search, title insurance, attorney's fees, and any transfer taxes or recording fees that your local government may charge. You will also have to prepay your first month's mortgage and, in some cases, property taxes, homeowner's association fees and hazard insurance. As a general rule, the closer to the end of the month you settle, the less cash you will need to bring to the settlement table. Because closing costs can add up to a significant amount of money, it's important to include them in your calculations. If you have any questions about closing costs or any other aspect of buying or selling property, please call the professionals at Realty USA, Schruender Real Estate. Our number is 685-5000 or you may drop by our office at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover.

Andover Bank Converting To Stock Ownership

By Lisa Waterman

Andover Savings Bank had voted to go public. The trustees of Andover Savings Bank have voted to convert to stock ownership.

The 152-year-old mutual savings bank is the first bank in the Greater Lawrence area to convert itself to a stock-owned bank and follow a trend that is producing substantial gains for local shareholders and institutional investors, according to its President Robert Henderson. "It's the first time in the community that people can own a piece of the rock," he said.

The conversion in other mutual savings institutions has broadened the bank's capital bases and thereby the ability to survive in the midst of banking industry deregulation.

Thirty-two thrift institutions have gone public in New England in the past 2½ years. In the state 12 out of 145 Savings Banks have converted to stock form, according to Henderson. Depositors in a thrift get subscription rights that enable them to buy a bank's stock before it is sold on the open market. In the case of the Andover Savings Bank, depositors with a minimum of a $50.00 deposit as of June 30, 1985 can subscribe.

"In anticipation of going public a circular is being prepared and as soon as it is approved, copies will be made available," Henderson said.

The subscriber is not limited by his deposit as to how many shares he can purchase, according to Henderson. By law, a person must be a depositor 90 days before conversion date to get subscription rights.

Depositors will have until the latter part of February to subscribe. The stock will go on the open market in middle of March, when the conversion is completed. It will be handled by the brokerage firm of Paine Webber Inc., Boston, which will underwrite the conversion of the Andover Savings Bank and receive allotments of the new stock to sell to its customers at the issue price. The issue price has not been established at this time.

"The conversion to a stock-owned bank will increase the capital position of the bank and make us more competitive with the major banks moving to the area from Boston. This will allow us to provide additional customer services and further enhance its product programs in the future and put the bank in a good position for future expansion," Henderson said.

In the case of the of the Concord Cooperative Bank, investors who bought in as depositors were offered the shares at $12.½ per share and based on the current price of $20.78 and as high as $22.00, investors have seen approximately a 76 percent appreciation on their investment, according to the current rate of exchange provided by Stephanie Kickline of The Investment Center, Boston.

Sugaring Off

The Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield will conduct tours of their sugaring-off operation on Saturday, March 1, 8 and 15, at 10 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. and Sundays, March 2, 9 and 16, at 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.
